THE REVELATION FROM

普三乙

On a tiny planet lived a lonely young boy-the little prince with his stubborn and unruly flower and three little volcanos. One day, the little prince came to a desert, in which he met a pilot whose plane had been broken on the way. They became friends. The little prince traveled for pleasure in all directions, meeting many marvelous people on each star: King, the drunkard, the merchant, light a lamp the human, the geographer, a proud gentleman and so on. The little prince did not like them actually, because they were always busy on their "important issues".

The book was written by Antoine de Saint, an author who was also a pilot. The story, in light of the conversations with the little prince, shows us that human beings are proud, conceited, greedy, and so on. In my opinion, not all the people are like those guys. There are still some other people who are full of sense of responsibility with his work, concerning more about the benefits of the public.

It was the fox and wild roses that the little prince learned great lessons from. When he was on the tiny plant, he didn't know exactly how to love the unique rose. However, proud as the rose was, the little prince claimed that she was still "HIS ROSE", that is, he became the master of his own life!

Those who the little prince had run into revealed that people nowadays have been so attached to wealth and fame. As we know firmly inside, love makes the whole world go around!

We love and our beloved accordingly live in happiness!
