TRAVEL IS THE BEST

應二甲

劉品逸

People said that travel is the best teacher. I can't agree more with this opinion. One of my favorite movie "Eat, Pray and Love" shows us that sometimes travel can even change your attitude about life. Different cultures and food make you surprised, and different ways to live make you feel something totally new in your life. In the end of the movie, the main character finished her trip and changed her mind. Therefore, the world is huge, and nothing should be more important than living your own happiness. Bring your luggage and go to some other place to travel when you're exhausted about your life. You will get something really special and your problem will be fine.

Once I got an experience of changing my life by traveling in 2010. I was in junior high school and was chosen to be the exchange student by school. I went to the Raffles high school in Singapore and experienced a totally different life. The first problem I met after I arrived there was the way they speak English. I have been learning English since I was in kindergarten, but I could hardly understand their English. I found out that the same language can be really different by different tones. Another thing about Singapore that surprised me was their education. The way that teachers taught was absolutely opposite with Taiwanese teachers. Students could go to the library and read or go to play basketball or football at the gym if they had no interest in the subject. The teacher told me that it was because students couldn't actually learn well if they didn't want to know about it. Learning could be not only in the classroom, but they could learn even more when they read the books they wanted and the sport they did. I preferred the way that Singapore students study. They were extremely smart, and good at telling others their own opinions.

To sum up, we can learn a variety of knowledge and experiences from traveling, so I intend that the saying "Travel is the best teacher" is meaningful and makes sense.
