Bollywood is famous for its gorgeous singing and dancing scenes in movies and people always think of when mentioning to Bollywood or Indian movies. The most famous movie industry that people most heard is “Hollywood.” However, do people know that actually Bollywood outputs the most films in the world and that the number of Bollywood films is more than those of Hollywood? To believe it or not, Bollywood outputs almost 1000 films per year in average and Hollywood films that released in India are less than 5%. Bollywood films sometimes are regarded as imitation but Bollywood film industry doesn't like this kind of hypothesis. Therefore, their movies have improved a lot and made a big hit around the world, such as 3 idiots and My name is Khan.

Concerning the atmosphere and the style of Bollywood films, most people cannot understand why in Bollywood films there must be singing and dancing scenes. For me, this is the characteristic of Bollywood films and that's the reason I admired them so much. The singing and dancing scenes perfectly fit the plots and the lyrics of songs are all about God, Family, Love, and Mother. people are always curious about why in Indian films this kind of scenes surely exist. It is because they love to sing and dance to show their emotions just as Taiwanese's aborigines do. This is a part of Indian culture and they value their religion as their life. The difference is that Indian merges their culture, religion, and traditional into their movies, which shows their love, faith, and loyalty to their country.

In the recent years, Bollywood has made many universally appreciated movies and many of them are popular worldwide. More and more people start accepting the style and the way of making Bollywood movies. Even some people fall in love with them deeply. Most Indians lives a poor and difficult life and that's why most of their movies are relaxed and pleasant. People enjoy the singing and dancing really much because they can temporarily get rid of all the worries in reality. The romantic films are mostly as romantic as fairy tales and everything is just so perfect. The stunt and special effects in action movies are usually unrealistic. Yet, the progress of Bollywood movies can be discovered. The movies are not always disconnected to the reality. Instead, they become more educational and meaningful.

I believe that Bollywood will soon become the most popular movie industry and beats Hollywood because they are so unique in their own way!
